Mount Ruapehu Home

Residential case study

The homeowner's brief called for a large holiday home with mountain views yet low energy consumption. The house appears small at the entry-level (which is the top level) but opens up towards the mountain over two levels to capture the vistas.

The home is anchored into the bank by the concrete basement. At street level, a wide hallway connects to the dry laundry, where individuals can unload their belongings before entering the living area.

The lounge opens onto a balcony with views of Mount Ruapehu. The dining room leads to a tiny afternoon sun balcony. The master bedroom is off to the side of the living room, with its own ensuite bathroom, walk-in closet, balcony, and, of course, mountain views. The entire upper floor can be used as a separate apartment, per the owner's request.

Designed with an aesthetically pleasing interior and exterior and high energy efficiency. MNM Designs chooses Karndean Van Gogh as a suitable choice for large and small families who test their home's flooring in different ways. Whether it's coping with lots of energetic children or a household with pets, Karndean Designflooring comes with the wear layer and manufacturing pedigree that puts industrial-grade durability into a studio apartment or home - without sacrificing appearance. What's more our residential guarantees go up to 20 years.

The Van Gogh range celebrates the intrinsic character and rich diversity of colour, tone, and texture of the world's most beautiful timbers suited for residential projects such as this, ranging from classic European species such as oak, elm, maple, and birch to quintessential Australian timbers such as blackbutt and spotted gum.

Imagery and Design Reproduction

Photography and print cannot always produce a perfect representation of our products. This includes colour, pattern variation and installation elements used. For this reason we strongly recommend obtaining a product sample and where possible viewing a larger sample in-store. We also recommend visiting our website for information on installation, after care and product selection: www.karndean.com/advice. We love developing new ideas and improving on our existing designs which means that sometimes products are withdrawn at short notice. We hate to disappoint and will work with you to find an alternative design. Please contact Customer Service for more information.
